

Parking and Restaurants near Denver Events

Thursday, April 12, 2012

[Optional] Lecture by Muffet Brown, Molly Brown's Great-granddaughter, 5:30-7pm

Brown Palace Hotel, 321 17th Street, east end of downtown Denver

$12 tickets available from: <http://store.mollybrown.org/store/spring-workshops-and-events/meet-margaret-molly-browns-descendent/>

There is a parking garage for the Brown Palace, but it is pricey, so you may wish to park more cheaply either in nearby lots or street parking a few blocks to the E. In most of the near-downtown area there are meters (which accept credit cards) and a bit farther afield, but within 6 blocks, one can find free street parking. Here are some parking options:

[OPTIONAL] MOLLY BROWN HOUSE MUSEUM TOUR

(you will receive an email about your tour time – it is either 2:30 or 3pm; please arrive 15 minutes ahead of your tour to check-in; latecomers are not allowed to join the tour)

1912: FULL STEAM AHEAD

Opening Weekend Event, included in your weekend registration...Silent films, Living History, open dancing: 6:30-10:15 (doors open 6pm)
Temple Events Center, Denver

The Molly Brown house is located at 1340 Pennsylvania Street (two blocks E, one S of the State Capitol). The Temple Events Center is located at 1595 Pearl Street, 3 blocks north and one east of the Molly Brown House. Street parking exists near both locations, but may be somewhat problematic due to the proximity to apartment buildings and downtown. Street parking has restricted hours (2 hour maximum) until after 6PM. A few pay lots (you must pay, even in the evenings) are in the area, one just S of the Temple Events Center. We recommend parking your car for the evening and walking for dining and events.
